

HPV PREVENTION: Nurses Get It Done

HPV vaccination is cancer prevention, and yet only 65% of teens in the United States have received the first dose of the HPV vaccine and less than half (48.6%) of teens are up to date. Nurses at all practice levels work hard to protect patients from vaccine-preventable diseases, but there is more to do to increase HPV vaccination rates. We know we can do better to prevent HPV cancers. It's up to nurses and nurse practitioners to get it done!
